The King Air 350I is a twin engined turboprop that is a larger version of the King Air 200. It has a further stretched fuselage, enabling a cabin for up to eight passengers in two club configuration. Winglets were added to the wingtips to increase range and performance of the aircraft.

The luxurious aircraft interior includes club seats, laminated cabinets, electronic shutters and wool carpet. A modular refreshments centre, forward flat screen and adjustable cabin temperature provide passengers with unparalleled levels of comfort and convenience. Upgraded models can feature a full onboard entertainment system and additional features.

The aircraft has a private bathroom and Wi Fi capability as standard. The King Air 350I is perfect for business and features built in hideaway executive work tables, electric outlets at every seat and LED reading and table lights. The plane benefits from a quieter interior, with built in vibration absorbers that dull outside noise.
